There have been some pretty small things done on this side of the water, in the churchwarden-tyranny line; but we rather think that the cape must be given to the Richmond Board of Guardians, in England. The chaplain put up a few Scripture texts on the bare walls of the chapel; and had I. H. S. worked on the front of much. It would not have fluttered the most rabid "Evangelical" dove in the North-west. Not so with the holy men of Richmond. The Board was called together. Admiral Stopford thought the Chaplain had exceeded his duty, as alfew days ago he took away a red Communioncloth from the chapel, without asking permission, and had a monogram of a religious nature worked on the cloth. He thought the Chairman should point out the Board's disapproval of the proceeding. The Chairman suggested that the Chaplain should be told that the Board objected to the Scriptural texts being placed on the walls of the chapel, and that he be requested to remove the monogram from the Communion-cloth. Sir Henry Parker disapproved of Ritualism or anything approaching to it. He protested against these illuminated texts being introduced; and, as regarded the Communion-cloth, he considered that to be a very improper proceeding on the part of the Chaplain. The Master was called in and questioned: If he had known what the chaplain was going to do, he should have objected to it, of course. Mr. Davies remarked that the consecration of St. Ann's, Brooklyn—Ascention, of course. The Chair sion-Day at "Old Trinity"—The Mexican monogram might be quite harmless. It is reported, on the best authority, that all foreign Jews have been ordered to leave St. Petersburg, instanter. It seems, at first sight, inexplicable; but the causes which led to it are entirely political. Religion had nothing to do with it. The Russians have never attempted to interfere with the religion of foreigners domiamong them. One reason probably is, that the Jews are so much better business men than the natives, and are getting so much wealth into their hands, that they are crowding out the Russians. The Russian remedy is—to ship them off. conviction (whether just or not), that the Jews the younger generation in Europe, are essentially with the advanced political notions of the day; religious exclusiveness of their fathers, they ally themselves naturally with the advocates of social-Jews to drift toward socialism in Germany, and of it rightly belongs to charity or the Church. #### Convocation of the Northern Deanery the minister at Waupon, who persists in of Indiana.

The Annual Convocation of the Northern Deanery of Indiana was held in 'Trinity Church, Michigan City, April 27th, 28th, 29th. There were present—the Dean (Rev. J. J. Faude), and Rev. Messrs. Boxer, Orpen, Webbe, Wood, and Tate of Niles, Michigan. At the opening service, the Rev. W. N. Webbe of Fort Wayne, preached on the "Importance of Little Things." The sermon was full of very excellent illustrations. At the Holy Communion, the next morning, the Rev. J. L. Boxer of La Porte, made a very forcible and clear address on "The Power of the Altar." In the afternoon, a business meeting was held. The Dean read his report, showing the Church in the Deanery to be in a very hopeful and promising condition. There are fifteen parishes and mission stations in this Deanery; and, before the next Convocation, all will have been supplied with clerical services. The Rev. C. Wood has begun services at Crown Point; where there are four Communicants, besides others who desire the Church's services. Before your readers see this, services will also have been renewed at Rochester, while assignments have been made, to the neighboring clergy, of two additional points; thus making 19 parishes and mission stations in the Deanery. An appropriation of $30 was made by the Convocation to the Diocesan Board of Missions; and pledges amounting to $100 were received for mission work in the Deanery. The Treasurer's report shows a balance now in the treasury of some $50. The Rev. W. N. Webbe was elected Secretary for the ensuing year, and the Rev. J. J. Faude Treasurer. It was decided to hold the September Convocation in Trinity Church, Fort Wayne, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with one or more Bishops, relative to securing their presence, with Addresses or sermons on To the Editor of the Living Church: that occasion. Mr. Daymude is writing and publishing, in the "Daily Democrat" of this city, a series of articles on "Griswold College, Past, Present and Future." Truly, the Great West needs a Church University, one that will take front rank among the best colleges in the land; and the united action of all the trans-Mississippi Bishops will undoubtedly bring about the desired object.

The first commencement, since the reorganization of the College, will occur May 20th, although the College will not close until a month later. The Exercises will take place in Library Hall, and will consist of several orations, including the Master's oration, by a former graduate. This day will mark the beginning of a new era for old Griswold.

A bust of the late Bishop Lee, the first Bishop of Iowa, has been presented by his widow to the College. It will occupy a prominent place in the Library.

All of the classes are now busy, reviewing the year's work, preparatory to the examinations at the close of the Term. Good solid work is done at Griswold.

A North Carolina Missionary.

Since the Visitation of the Assistan Bishop of the Diocese, when Confirmation was held in both St. Thomas' and Grace Church, Bertie county, and the Church of the Holy Innocents was consecrated, I have admitted to the Holy Communion two third Sunday in April (the third Sunday in each month being my busiest day), I held three services; the first at 9:30 A. M., in the County Jail. One of the criminals, who has been condemned to be hanged for murder, I am instructing for the Holy Sacrament of Baptism, which is to be administered to him on the first Sunday in May. The second service was at II A. M., in St. Thomas' Church, Windsor, N. C.; the third was held at the Holy Innocents', seventeen miles from Windsor, at 3:30 P.M. On the following day, Monday the 20th, I drove twenty-eight miles by 12 M., in order to visit a consumptive patient, and administer to him, in private, the Holy Communion. In the afternoon, fourteen miles home. On Wednesday, I was summoned to bury a lady in a neighboring parish, eighteen miles distant. As there are neither railroad nor steamboat facilities in this immediate region, all of the ministerial travel has to be done with a horse and buggy. In this way so much time is consumed, that but little opportunity is left for reading and study; not unfrequently the Church papers lie for weeks upon the table, unread, for want of time. In addition to St. Thomas' and the Holy Innocents', I have Grace Church, Lewiston, and a mission at Roxobel, eight miles from Grace Church, twenty-four from St. Thomas', and forty-two from the Holy Innocents, all in the county of Bertie. I am in special need of $100 or $150 in order to complete the chancel, and procure the furniture for St. Thomas' and for the Holy Innocents'. If any one would send me the above amount, or any articles of church furniture, such as chairs, altar, and lectern, or prayer desk, I should be most thankful. I also need, very decidedly, a "Private Communion Service," so frequently am I called upon to administer the Holy Com munion to the sick and invalids. #### A Good Suggestion.

We commend to the consideration of the Church, the following timely and suggestive artitle from the Omaha "Church Guardian." It is high time that some steps shall be taken by the Church at large, by which we may be saved the shame and mortification of seeing those, whether Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, who have worn them-Master, reduced, in their old age, to de pendence upon the charity of the world. We rejoice to see that, in more than one quarter, the subject is meeting with attention; and we devoutly hope that the agitation of it will not be allowed to drop, until something definite and permanent shall have been accomplished.

We hope that the coming General Convention and the Rev. W. T. Beaven, of St. Michael's. hurch Discipline in Connecticut.

The Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, Whom the Father will send in My Name.
S. JOHN xiv.26.

Christ's prayer was, "Father, give them the Holy Spirit to teach, sanctify, and comfort them." His Father should send, was worth all. BISHOP ANDREWES.

Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire, And lighten with celestial fire; Thou the Anointing Spirit art,
Who dost Thy sevenfold gifts impart.
Thy blessed unction from above
Is comfort, life, and fire of love; Enable with perpetual light
The dullness of our blinded sight. Anoint and cheer our soiled face With the abundance of Thy grace: Keep far our foes, give peace at home; Where Thou art Guide no ill can come. Teach us to know the Father. Son. And Thee, of Both, to be but One; That through the ages all along This may be our endless song, Praise to Thy eternal merit, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Amen.

Evening Communion.

Bishop Doane, in his last Convention Address, has the following:

"I must set my face and my advice against it. Upon mere practical grounds it is a mistake. The highly-wrought emo-tionalism of this service concentrates the religious devotion of all Lent, and culmin- quences and exposures, has since superates it before the time, making Good Friday vened; and this boy, their eldest, is left to unreal, and taking the edge of fervor off the care of those paid for it, who have, as the Easter Communion. It is, in spirit, best they may, to re-seat the governing entirely opposed to the whole plan of Holy powers, and show the lad the impolicy, as Week, suggested in the Prayer Book, well as the evil, of too much policy. which, except upon the last two days, avoids the commemoration of separate events, or the adoption of any arrangement of time. It savors rather, of the Romish use, in its melodramatic and sensational tendency, and is imperfect, without the palms and the washed feet. It is entirely unauthorized by rubric, and is utterly opposed to the spirit and the letter of Catholic usage. The institution was in the evening, it is true; but the Jewish Passover, like everything in the old dispensation, began, as it were over night. With them, it was "the evening and the morning;" with us, it is the morning, for the day-star has arisen. And the whole authority for what are called night-Communions, bears not upon the new-fangled notions of the Eucharist on the evening of Maundy Thursday, or on the eve of a secular new-year; turning a vigil into a feast; but upon the very early celebration, following upon the Nativity and the Resurrection, before it is dawn. If people are ready to put themselves out for this sort of night service, on Christmas and Easter, I shall be very glad to join them. But the novelty of Evening-Eucharist is, to speak mildly, a mistake. It is certainly not worth while to be wise above the universal tradition of the Church. The claim, that the practice violates ancient Canon is, of course, unfounded; for the only Canon on the subject not being Valley of the Nahr Rubin and Wadi Surar. man who uses Gilt-Edge Butter Maker will in-Œcumenical, has no binding obligation. But, as an indication of ancient, universal, and until recently, uniform feeling, it is suggestive, and ought to be authoritative. My distinct advice, and it is a godly admonition, is against the practice. At least, I hope, after this, that it will not spread in the Diocese. Wise old Mr. Babcock said, epigrammatically, the other day, that keeping Maundy-Thursday night with a celebration is to make the Holy Eucharist, not the memorial of the Sacrifice, but a commemoration of an anniversary.

And decidedly self-Church work, or even in their own salva possessed was the man thus addressed, in tion. They seem to think that they will the presence of the astonished congregafamily by his righteousness. It is also true that the builders of the Ark did not believe in the Architect. We are living in sad times—times when men are so absorbed in business, that they have no time to repent, no time to think of their immortal soul. Men do give a little now and then for the Church's work; but the majority of them are cold, indifferent, and careless for the future. Our men need the prayers of all; and, by witnessing, day by day, the good examples of our women, may yet be led to take their place in the Church.-[The Church Bell, Waco, Texas.]

Prematurely developed, and thus ranking with companions two years older, he had for some months kept up a clandestine correspondence with a young lady, whose parents possess little wealth except in gold; and both were barely saved from nameless and lasting disgrace, by providential detection, and vigorous discipline. As I write, he is trying, with much suavity, and most respectful demeanour, to incept a scheme, the end whereof is to obtain a letter, which, there is every reason to believe, he expects from her. Now, beneath all this bland exterior, there are immoral resolves, which his fine intellect, good manners, and insinuating air, enable him the more successfully to carry out. #### The First Bluebird of Spring.

Written for the LIVING CHURCH. Bird of the sky-dyed wing, Bright herald of the Spring! Thy clear, glad song Awakes the woods and vales; And charms the murmuring gales: While Echo's voice with music sweet. Thy joyful carol doth repeat,
The hills and mountain-sides along.

Bright bird! I pray thee tell
Where thou hast been to dwell,
Through Winter's cold!
No lay of thine hath charmed mine ear, Through all the frozen months so drear; While oft, along this pathway rude, I traced, alone, the solitude.

But I've been told That thou to far untravelled lands, O'er forests wide, and scorching sands, On buoyant wing
Hast tracked thine airy way;
Nor feared by night or day;
Guided by Him Who rolls the spheros,

And Who the lonely sparrow hears, The blue deep traversing. Where, bluebird! didst thou dwell? In some warm, quiet dell, Where flowers in bloom With rich perfume Fill full the odorous air? In some green spot on distant isle, Along whose shores the blue waves smile,-

Hast thou, fair bird, been there? Oh, that I could have flown with thee! From earthly care and sorrow free. As thou, sweet bonny bird-Life's din awhile unheard-And found a rest With quiet blest,

On some sun-lighted shore; Where, o'er the golden-winged hours, The glorious heaven-descended powers Might watch to guard me safe from ill, My soul with blessed thoughts to fill; Where sorrow weeps no more.

Vain wish, sweet bird! I know: May Heaven forgive the prayer! No bliss unmingled here below; Life hath its equal share Of joy and sorrow, pain and pleasure; Some dross in every golden treasure. There is within The seed of sin;

Its fruit is dropped on every shore; And none its sweetness can restore; Death's shadow darkens every wave; The dusty path of life we tread With cloud and sunshine overhead, Till, tired, we fain would make our bed-

The grave; In other worlds to find the bliss We never yet have found in this. Yes, we o'er Death's dark, heaving sea Must cross, fair bird, but not with thee.

Yet, bonny bird! canst tell me this? When bursts in light th' eternal Spring Upon this shivering clime, Shall we not hear thy glad song ring Among the choir sublime? A strain so sweet

Is not unmeet To fill an humble sphere, In hymning th' eternal year; For know we not that, here below,

The primal woe.

The primal woe.

Though full to thee of death and pain,
Mingles no sadness in thy strain?

And sadness cannot dwall with bliss,
No sweeter lay

To charm the day

Melts in such liquid beauty round,
As flesh thy light life showers of sound.

As flash thy light-like showers of sound. So, when in glory from the skies The Heaven-descended Paradise Shall in primeval beauty shine, Thy voice divine Will sure in loftier raptures flow. Than we on earth can ever know!

Then hail, thou prophet bird! Bright herald of the Spring! Thy song my heart hath stirred With music ravishing; As when in boyhood, long I listened to thy song, Gladsome vision o'er me stealing, Bright thoughts to my soul revealing,-So now I see thee here again, Safe o'er the heaving main;

Again my heart leaps up with gladness. To hear thy welcome lay; And every lingering shade of sadness Hath vanished quite away. Welcome sweet bird! I pray thee here en

They are entrusted to us for the edifying of the Body of Christ, that we may minister as of the ability that God giveth. In this we are to realize our discipleship, and to grow up into Him who is the Head. He came not to be ministered to, but to minister, not to do His own will, but the will of the Father.

In this is our calling, and it is well that as we wait under the opening have received our Saviour's Glorified Humanity, we should be impressed with this truth. #### The Indian Question.

"The Indian Question" is one of the most vital and practical issues now "before the house." As citizens and as Christians, we all have an interest and responsibility in its speedy and righteous solution; and we can all exert an influence to this end by aiding to form public opinion in the right way. #### Joseph Cook and Psychic Force.

Mr. Joseph Cook, the great Boston lecturer, sometimes titled "Rev.," is about to withdraw his annual illumination from Boston, for a time, to let his light shine in the Old World, Mr. Cook is an eloquent man, in his way, and that is not a bad way. He uses some long words, and sometimes talks about things beyond his own comprehension, and past the finding out of mortal man; but-he means well. No one who them all off. He opened his robes and has heard, and seen him, speaking, can doubt that he is in real earnest to get at the Truth; and that his work, on the whole, "makes for righteousnss."

Of late, Mr. Cook has been battling with the philosophy of materialism; the system which develops mind as well as body from protoplasm, and resolves the soul of man into the correlation of forces. So far, good. All men who are disposed to deny their descent to be from monkeys, will be thankful that Mr. Cook has taken their side; and the monkeys will be disconsolate.

While we are glad to count the Boston lecturer on our side, and to give him credit for noble purpose and eloquent utterance, we could wish that he had fought for us on some other line. The burden of his argument, this season, has been "Psychic Force." It sounds well, and we discovered, by observation to have tested, the discovery, that the mind can act upon matter without contact. Suppose it can of the wrong done us, and know they all how does that invalidate the theories o main evidence that such a power is possessed by pure spirit? Why, simply one of

Mr. Cook held a slate, or two slates clamped together, under the direction of a spiritualistic yerformer; and, after a moment's waiting, a message was found on one of the inner surfaces! There is not, we may safely affirm, a prestidigitator in One of the great defects of our Economy the land, that couldn't beat that on five as he cites Professors Zollner and Crooks, Acting under the Canon on Ritual of (the latter was converted to Spiritualism 1874, the Bishop of Pennsylvania summon- by Home, an exposed impostor). #### An English Confirmation.

An English correspondent of the "Stantain ceremonies and practices. In case the dard of the Cross," thus describes a Confirmation by the Lord Bishop of Cornwall

The service began by the singing of a hymn, led by a large choir but participated in by the whole congregation. Then fol- Spanish translation of our Order for the lowed a lesson, consisting of several passages of the New Testament, bearing on standing under the chancel-arch, delivered an excellent extempore address to the to be well done, though the typographical class, setting forth the nature of the act which they were about to perform. He then asked of them, together, the question as it is in the Prayer Book, having, however, admonished them not to answer it at couraging progress.—Bishop Spalding, that time, but, taking a list of their names in the last "Spirit of Missions," makes an into his hands, he proceeded to call out each of them separately, putting the inquiry to them all individvally, e.g., "N. or The Provincial System would render M. do you?" each one as addressed answering "I do." If the reply were indistinct, he repeated the inquiry, "Do you?" This plan (adopted also, I am informed, in the Diocese of Salisbury) certainly aid

After all had been duly interrogated, his lordship asked the candidates to kneel, and pray that they might have the help of the iug in the meantime returned to the Holy Table. The Veni Creator was then sung, of five or six, one verse of a hymn being sung as they came forward. Each one was and so on until all had been confirmed. On going to their places, each one at once knelt in prayer; and when all had been confirmed, the Bishop again came forward, and, with unction, addressed them in a most fatherly way, urging them to constancy, and progress; and especially exhorting them to the frequent reception of the Lord's Supper. Then he asked the congregation to join him in silent prayer in their behalf; another hymn followed, and the Bishop, returning to the Holy Table, concluded a service which every one, I am sure, felt it a privilege to have had the opportunity of attending.

St. Andrew's parish, Mt. Holly, N. Y., the Hon. Geo. Heywood was chosen as a member of the Vestry; it being his 6oth consecutive election to that office. -- It is with much regret that we learn that, owing to the condition of his health, the Bishop of Tennessee has been advised by his medical advisers to abstain entirely from all duty, with a view to entire rest.—It is said that the history of Trinity Parish, which Dr. Dix is writing, will naturally comprise much of the history of New York. It is nearly completed. --- Bishop Penick will arrive in Philadelphia about the work in Africa nearly three years, and deserves a vacation. --- M. Renan has said some pretty things in London about the Christian religion, which it has been the work of his life to undermine, as far as possible. He calls it "the sweet Galilean vision." A little less religious syrup, says the "Spectator," would be preferable.-The Methodist General Conference is in session at Cincinnati. It holds its meetings in Pike's Opera-house. There are two delegates present from India. ——A washer woman, a regular and attentive listener at church, was commended by her pastor. "Yes," she said, "after my hard week's work is done, I git so rested to come to church, and sit and think about nothin'!' -The "Renaissance," the liberal Protestant organ of France, deprecates the threatened visit of the Salvation Army to that country, and says that it is calculated to make Protestantism ridiculous and will certainly provoke the intervention of the police.—It is reported that Mr. Paxton Hood, one of the ablest Congregational ministers in England is about to join the Church of England.—The Appletons have published a volume of fifteen of Bishop Whittingham's sermons. ---- A correspondent from the diocese of Springfield writes: "We had a glorious Convention; we always have such." Why not? Such a Bishop, such earnest clergy and devoted laity, and all at unity!——The "Western Church" publishes, in pamphlet form, a Celebration of the Holy Communion, by the Rev. Nelson Ayres, dedicated to all lovers of a true Catholicity in the Church of Jesus in Mexico. The translation seems arrangement might be improved.—The "Little Churchman" (Texas) begins its second year next month. It reports enappeal for funds to build a cathedral in Denver. Orders addressed to this office will receive prompt attention.-We extend our symyathies to our afflicted brother, L. H. Morehouse, editor of the "Young Churchman," Milwaukee. His youngest daughter, Mary Louise, was called to Paradise, last month. The Rev. John C. SEVERAL correspondents are exercised about the "Hinman Case," and wish us to express some opinion, or at least to open our columns to the discussion. All we have to say is, that we shall never keep back from our readers any facts that are of general interest and importance, of which we have satisfactory assurance. But we cannot allow the expression of mere opinions on a question involving the gravest issues of moral character as well as official action. This is a sad case, to which we refer, and one in which we have no evidence to offer, because none has been furnished us. The only thing that we feel justified in saying at present is, that it is a reproach to the Canon law of the American Church that such a trial as Mr. Hinman's is possible. middle of May. He has been at his trying The Province, with its Court of Appeal, is the only remedy that we can see.

> The Russian Easter, which comes two weeks later than ours, was duly celebrated in New York, at the Russo-Greek Chapel which was crowded. Father Bjerring in his rich robes, bearing in his hands a crucifix, and a triple candelebra containing lighted tapers and a censor censed the people, until the place was filled with the odor, and saluted them with the words "Christ is risen," to which the choir responded, "truly risen." The Gospel was St. John I. The services were intoned; and at the close, Mr. Bjerring advanced to the chancel rail, to allow the worshippers to kiss the golden crucifix.

THE Hon. Geo. R. Wendling, who has done good service to the cause of humanity as a lecturer in opposition to the infidel tenets of Mr. Ingersol, bears the following testimony to the character of the clergy: "The clergy constitute the most humane and self-sacrificing class of men to be found on earth to-day. I have been in the last year in every Northern State, from Maine to Nebraska, and everywhere the clergy are doing the most for humanity not only in the way of religious ministration, but I mean in caring for the poor, the wretched, the homeless, the sick, the weak, and the intemperate."

The "Christian at Work" takes the 'Churchman' to task, for "manufacturing Church history to order." The case is too long to be stated here, but the point is well taken. "We trust," says the critic, 'that the number of those who depend upon their imagination for their facts, is decreasing. Be this as it may, one too many has access to the columns of the excellent 'Churchman' " versary of the Czar's birth.

Correspondence of the LIVING CHURCH. The Annual Convention of the Diocese of Tennessee met on the 28th of April, in St. Mary's Cathedral, Memphis. There was a fair attendance of clerical and lay delegates from every part of the diocese. The Bishop was present at the opening of the Convention; but, on account of his illness, was unable to take any part in the proceedings; the Rev. John A. Harrison. of Jackson, being appointed to preside. Besides the regular elections, little business of importance was transacted: though a strong feeling was manifested with regard to the missions of the diocese. and especially respecting the work of Education. The Report of the Missions among the colored people was very satisfactory, it being noted, for instance, that one man had contributed $1,000 during the past year, to the maintenance of the Church. Such an example as this the white congregation might do well to imitate.

A memorial was presented (through the Rev. Geo. Moore) by some of the citizens of Somerville, offering the Female Academy at that place to the Convention, on condition that all indebtedness should be paid off, and the school continued. The whole matter was placed by the Convention in the hands of the Rev. Geo. Moore, to be settled as seemed best to the Churchpeople of Somerville.

Resolutions were passed, encouraging the work neither forsake us, O God of our salvation. of the University of the South, and of the Church School for girls, at Columbia and Bolivar; and James' Church in this city (who retains his posicalling on the Church-people to give these Institutions their cordial sympathy and co-ciety, of New York), preached, without notes, an operation. #### Church News.

MISSISSIPPI.-From the Southern Churchman we learn that the fifty-third annual Council of this Diocese assembled in Grenada on the opening sermon was preached by the Rev. M. M. Moore, of Church Hill. The venerable Bishop, now in his eighty-third year, seemed quite feeble, as he had come to the Council from a long and exhausting visitation. In his Address, the leave the Council free in their deliberations. Soon after opening, he called the Rev. Dr. Douglas to the chair, who presided until near commit the Council to any definite plan at pres-

The delegates elected to the General Convention are: Rev. Dr. Sansom, Rev. Dr. Douglas, Rev. Mr. Marks, and Dr. Pickett, of the clergy, and of the laity, Judge Bailey, Judge Farrar, Dr. Howard, and Mr. Murray F. Smith.

ILLINOIS.—We are pleased to learn that the Rev. Charles F. Lester, Rector of St. Paul's, Hyde Park, has declined the call which he received from St. Paul's, Milwaukee. From a higher character were permitted to outweigh all such considerations.

The St. George's Benevolent Association of Chicago, held its Annual Festival Service, at the Cathedral in this city, on Sunday last, at 4:30 P. M. The sacred building was appropriately and tastefully decorated for the occasion. Upon the re-table, at the back of the beautiful marble altar, was a magnificent and very fragrant Cross of St. George, formed of exquisite roses; and, at the intersection of nave and transept, were suspended the national flags of England and Austria.

The service, as usual, was choral; and, in its cendering, did very great credit to the gentlemen and boys of the cathedral choir, well sustaining its reputation. The opening part of the service was intoned by the Rev. George C. Street, Chaplain of the Society, who also received and offered the Alms, and pronounced the Benediction at the close. The Rev. Dr. Locke read the Lessons; and Canon Knowles said the Office from the Creed. Besides the clergymen named, there were present in the choir, of the city clergy, the Revs. Luther Pardee, Henry G. Perry, J. D. Cowan, Jas. E. Thompson, and the Rev. F. Courtney, the preacher of the day. The visiting clergy were the Rev. E. H. Gaynor, of Decorah, Ia., and the Rev. John M, Stevens, of Babylon, N. Y. The weather during the day, until within an hour or two of the time set for the service, had been very fine; but, during the latter part of the afternoon, occasional thunder showers and threatening masses of clouds had the effect, doubtless, of preventing the attendance of many who would have made a point of being present. Notwithstanding this, however, the body of the church was filled to its utmost capacity.

The Processional was-"Onward, Christian Soldiers;" the Anthem-Stainer's "Leave us not,

The Rev. Frederick Courtney, Rector of St. tion as one of the chaplains of St. George's Sosons."

To the Chicago Times, of last Monday, which, tions were passed, expressing the Convention's as usual, is exceptionally careful and correct in deep sorrow at the loss of one of the Church's its report, we are indebted for the following excellent summary of the sermon:

The preacher characterized the book of Ruth

> Those emigrating from their early homes brought with them also the liability to disease and death, and it was to palliate disease and ease the pillow of the dying that he pleaded with them on that afternoon. It was hard enough to resign one's self to a bed of sickness, even when one was surrounded by relatives and friends, and tended with all the care, solicitude, and luxury that could be imagined, but it was a terrible ordeal to have to sustain sickness and death in a strange land, in poverty and destitution. If they owed kindness and assistance to all who need it, how much more did they do so to those who were brothers of their blood and country? It was for this sacred cause that he begged their sympathy and assistance.

The St. George's Society was an organization which did a noble work, and it was worthy of the fullest interest and support that could be extended to it. Its noble mission was to take care and to do all other things that were necessary for the emigrant and the stranger in a strange land.

The preacher closed his sermon with a powerdefer making provision until that time, than to ful and eloquent appeal for the St. George's Bed in St. Luke's Hospital, and, after an anthem, during which the Alms were collected and presented), the service was brought to a close, with a Collect and the Blessing, and the clergy and choir retired from the church to the strains of the Recessional, "Abide with Me."

Lord, we can trust Thee for our holy dead,
They, underneath the shadow of Thy Tomb,

We thank Thee for their rest, and for our lightened gloom.

But, Lord, our living—who on stormy seas Of sin and sorrow, still are tempest tossed! Our dead have reached their haven, but for Teach us to trust Thee, Lord, for these our loved and lost!

For these we make our passion-prayer by night; For these we cry to Thee through the long day, We see them not; O keep them in Thy sight; From them and us, be Thou not very far away.

And if not home to us, yet lead them Home,

To where Thou standest at the heavenly gate; That so from Thee they shall not further roam; And grant us patient hearts Thy gathering-time to wait.

The Battle of Life.

Go forth in the Battle of Life, my boy, Go while it is called to-day; For the years go out, and the years come in, Regardless of those who may lose or win, Of those who may work or play.

And the troops march steadily on, my boy, To the army gone before; You may hear the sound of their falling feet Going down to the river where the two worlds

They go to return no more.

There is room for you in the ranks, my boy, And duty, too, assigned. Step into the front with cheerful grace-Be quick, or another may take your place, And you may be left behind.

Temptations will wait by the way, my boy, Temptations without and within; And spirits of evil, in robes as fair As the holiest angels in heaven wear, Will lure you to deadly sin.

Then put on the Armor of God, my boy, In the beautiful days of youth; Put on the helmet, breast-plate and shield, And the sword that the feeble arm may wield In the cause of Right and Truth.

And go to the Battle of Life, my boy, With the peace of the Gospel shod, And before High Heaven do the best you can For the great reward, for the good of man, For the Kingdom and crown of God! -Home Life in Song.

There was a good deal of the soldier in |-- [Parish Visitor.] Tom Lewis, and these words, spoken but a few week's since, at his Baptism, had fired him as few words could have done. His friend read them aloud in his deep, earnest voice:

"We receive this person into the congregation of Christ's flock, and do sign him with the sign of the Cross, in token that hereafter he shall not be ashamed to contess the Faith of Christ crucified, and MAN-FULLY to fight under His banner against sin, the world, and the devil; and to continue Christ's faithful SOLDIER and servant unto his life's end. Amen."

"God grant it, my boy," he said, and then they parted.

"A soldier's first duty is to obey," Tom thought as he walked home. "All I have to do is to get my orders and follow them."

It was "all;" but in the thick of battle the best soldier may get confused. The noise drowns the commander's voice. Others come between him and his leader, and when the leader is lost sight of, the battle is lost. Tom was in earnest. He was brave to a fault. If he knew a thing was right, he would stand up for it like a man. He was not ashamed of being a Christian, even among the boys, and they soon found it useless to taunt him with that. But he had his weak points, as we all have, and the enemy knew them, and attacked him just there. He had not learned his weakness. He was fighting the Lord's battles with earthly weapons. He had not found out the Lord's way, nor learned that in the heavenly "war, the battle was the Lord's."

So he was soon and often discouraged. His temper got the better of him, and he was defeated on this line day after day. The boys knew his quick temper, and knew, too, just how to provoke it. Some- are twenty-five that will serve you all your times, before he could think or pray, the life." Hence the peril of evil habits. temptation would come and go, leaving him ashamed and sorrowful. He found part. A Russian writer says, "Habits are out in this hard way that the enemy was a necklace of pearls; until the knot and too strong for him. prised or disgusted, as Tom thought he would. He did not say a word till he had ied this epitaph in an old English graveyard," he said, smiling:

Here lies an old soldier whom all must applaud, Since he suffered much hardship at home and abroad;

But the hardest engagement he ever was in, Was the battle of self, with the conquest of sin."

Tom's eyes filled, and there was something in his throat that kept him from saying anything. But his friend did not orated. Never had our congregations been church. I asked to see what he had said, though I was loth to say out to day to that wait for him.

We have often thought, what a pity light could not be conveyed in pipes. Yet why should it not? The rays of a beam of light made parallel by the convex lens, have nothing to do but move on thus, in obedience to the great law of motion. It seems now, that certain inventors claim to be able to disseminate from a central generator the radiant energy, with no more loss than would be experienced when the electric current is divided.

By their method, the light having been transmitted through tubes, is turned on by prismatic reflectors, and dispersed by proper lenses. According to the Journal of Science, the system has been tried in San Francisco, and is working well. They have now but to adapt it to the solar ray, and bring up sunshine through pipes, into such rooms as are not favoured with its direct rays, and we shall have nothing left to ask for in the way of illumination, unless it is to demand that our stored-up sunshine be turned on after dark, or what they will then say, used to be dark.

A boy being requested to write a composition on the subject of "pins," produced the following: "Pins are very useful. They have saved the lives of a great many men, women, and children—in fact, whole families." "How so?" asked the puzzled teacher; and the boy replied, "Why, by not swallowing them." This matches the story of the other boy who melancholy, his was as buoyant as usual. and no one had ever heard him say one defined salt as "the stuff that makes potatoes taste bad when you don't put any on."

A Jesuit Catechism for Indians.

From the papers of Father Brugas, printed in the "Magazine of American History," we take the following extracts from the Jesuit catechism which was taught to the Iroquois, Hurons and other Indian tribes some two hundred years ago:

Of the Paradise the Indian Proselyte

Q. How is the country in Paradise, is it

The Father Jesuit answers: A. It is very beautiful; there is no lack of every kind of eatables, of all that is necessary to clothe yourself, you are happy in every respect; if somebody says, I would like to be dressed in such a dress, there is the dress before you in an instant; if he desires to eat anything, Jesus Christ brings it immediately.

Q. Do people work in Heaven?

A. They do nothing whatever. They do not sow nor do they cultivate the fields, Q. Are the trees the same as here?

A. No; for the trees in Paradise are extremely beautiful, they are always in bloom, their leaves always green, and they do not fall, the grass never dies.

Q. Is the sun the same as here? Does it rain? Does the wind blow? Does it

A. No; it is always fine weather and the sky is never cloudy.

Q, Have they fruits in Heaven? A. That is not impossible.

Q. How are the fruits made?

A. They are fine fruits; each tree is so loaded with them that, although people may gather them every day, there is never an end of it, for as soon as you have eaten one another grows in its place.

Q. Is it cold in Heaven? A. There is no winter, but an eternal summer. O. Are there many inhabitants in Heaven? A. Yes, a very great number.

Q. Do they know each other?

A. They know each other and are brothers and sisters, they greet each other and never refuse or deny anything.

Q. Are the inhabitants of Heaven hand-A. They are very beautiful; for people who when dying were misformed are straightened; there are no blind, no deaf, no hunchback people; for they are all made new in Heaven.

Q. Then there is no sickness in Heaven? A. No; people live there very quietly: There are no diseases, no famine, no war, and no death.

Q. Is it not rather tiresome in Heaven? A. No, for one hundred years are like a day. People have a great pleasure to look at each other.

Studies in the New Testament:" By Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., Pastor of the Memorial Church, New York. Charles Scribner's Sons. Price, $1.50.

The author of these "Studies" is a Congregascholar, theologian and preacher. However, these "studies" are not, as one might fancy, from discourses; they are sketches of argument and illustration, on many and widely-varied topics; scriptural and ecclesiological. Originally they were prepared as "articles for a religious newspaper." Each topic is clearly and simply deavoidance of all ambiguity. The author is a working-man in the ministry; clear, bright, sharp-cut, and brim-full of the Congregational spirit. See these lines on the subject of "An Ordained Ministry:" "But what is Ordination? The ceremony of setting apart the Minister whom the Spirit of God invites and presses into the work. In signification, it is nothing but our public recognition of what we believe God has done beforehand in choosing the man." And further on: "We do not profess to communicate anything when we lay our hands upon a candidate's head. It is a mere posture to show we intend to set apart to a professional calling as a preacher." [Italics, ours.] That is clear enough; and we like the candor. Setting apart things like this, the volume, on subjects of practical Christianity. would be more than ordinarily useful to the "layreader." Its thoughts are sensible and manly, well related, and abounding in apposite illustra-

This series of current works of the day, by minds who lead the world, social, political, religious, and historical, must be regarded as a great boon to the reading masses of the American people. The titles of the few works issued as yet, as well as of those forthcoming, are pledges of a great popular benefit. The present issues are similar in style and typography to the "FRANKLIN SQUARE SERIES," but have the additional advantage of being covered. The venture of reducing a $1.50 volume to a strong, clear, and well-printed pamphlet for 15cts., like these before us, is sure to affect the book-trade in both current and standard literature, very seriously.

"The Beauty of the King:" By Rev. A. H. Holloway, A. M. The Authors' Publishing Company, New York. $1.00

The book is a series of meditations on the earthly life's history, and the divine nature of the Lord Jesus:—the dual relations of the "Truth," in the human element and the divine, in the incarnate God, our Saviour. The meditations, as we should style them, are thoughtful and well sustained. They would serve well as a book of devotional reading on "the life of Jesus;" teaching no sectarianism, but the simple beauty of the truth as it is in Him.

Apostolic Succession in the Church of Sweden. By the Rev. A. Nicholson, LL. D. Incumbent of Christ Church, Leamington. Rivingtons. London, Oxford, and Cambridge. 1880.

This is a brief statement, by a well-known and able divine, of the arguments in favor of the validity of Orders in the Swedish Church. To all who are interested in this question (and it cer tainly is becoming one of increasing interest to the Church in this country), this book will be peculiarly welcome.

SECOND DAY.

After Morning Prayer the Bishop delivered his annual address, which was listened to with close attention. On the subject of the Province he

As regards the Provincial System it may be worth while to remark that the thing itself, called by whatever name you choose, must come ere very long. At our present ratio of increase since the beginning of this century, the day is not distant when our Bishops will be numbered by hundreds, and our clerical and lay deputies by thedral institutions. And so it is, and we thank thousands, and the meeting of our dioceses by representation as one Province, as is now the case, will be simply impossible. No town would receive the General Convention, much less welcome it, and even if the largest cities were selected as the places of meeting, no hall could be found spacious enough to accommodate the vast which would assemble for deliberation and legislation. But there are other evils rap- much abused. He favored temperance in all idly growing under our present system. There is immediate and pressing need for the reform of our judicial code. A single trial in any and particular vice. He, with Plato, believed that every case is final. There is no appeal, no matter true temperance consisted in the holding in by how strong the local prejudice, how venal or the man of all his passions. Rev. Dr. Dresser partisan the court, how weak, corrupt or wicked the Judge, when the sentence is pronounced, so far as the laws of the Church are concerned, there is no redress. The Judge who pronounces sentence may be confessedly the accuser, prosecutor and bitter assailant of the party on trial. and yet when condemned he has no appeal save patient waiting, to his God.

There seems to be little hope for reform of our judicial system from the legislation of the General Church. It was tried years ago and signally failed. It might be successful now, but still a more immediate source of relief suggests itself in the organization of several dioceses into a province, and then it would be naturally arranged protection, and the extension of church work, is very primitive, if it be not apostolic. It requires no profound searching to see in the epistle of St. Ignatius that he had the supervision of other churches besides Antioch, and that he stood to various surrounding Bishops as a first among equals. The existence of such a system emerges on every hand in the historic records of the immediately succeeding ages. The Apostolic Canons, which to a large extent echo the voice of the Apostles, and which were in several important particulars re-enacted by the Council of Nice, imply and require a grouping of dioceses. It is idle to invent theories and contrive schemes to avoid what is practically inevitable, and unless the fundamental principles of the Church of God. as embodied in her laws of universal acceptance be set aside, what is known as the Provincial System must, in substance, always exist. In Rome, the Œcumenical Canons have in many instances been broken down, and hence with her the Provincial System is a name and nothing more; her metropolitans have no power, her synods are a ply (virtually, under protest) with the Bishops' pretense. All power of every kind is lodged in admonition. Since doubts exist as to the validity one, and he is the absolute monarch, the sovereign lord and unlimited master of the entire obedience. This strange and uncatholic state of things is the result of a contest long drawn out, of the proceedings themselves, it is not probable Covenant mercies and forgivenesses, suggested and the main element of the fight was the war of the papacy against the metropolitans, the antagonism of the Popes to the Provincial System. The false decretals served equally the cause of the Bishop of Rome and the diocesan Bishops. Between these two, the metropolitans were ground as flour between the upper and nether millstones, and soon they disappeared, as a reality, from the Patriarchate of the West. When these were gone the petty individual Bishops were easily crushed, and then the See of Rome was relieved from all restraint and developed rapidly into what we see her to France; Was the Second Ecumenical Council in be to-day. On the other hand had the diocesan Bishop succeeded at once in overthrowing the metropolitans and dethroning the Pope, they would have been without immediate restraint from above, and would have developed according to the bent of their characters into faithful devoted shepherds of their flocks, or into petty tyrants, ruling with a rod of iron, and making their own sweet will and caprice law.

Quis custodit custodes? is a question which does not always receive from our present system so prompt, and definite, and satisfactory reply as would be desirable, especially for the clergy; hence the danger to which we adverted, of great scandals arising in consequence of the monstrous defects and faults of our existing judicial sys-tem, and which would be averted by the wise grouping of our dioceses into associations under a ministerial head, duly restrained, and limited as to his power and functions. Such a system is as anti-papal as anything in the world can be. begun as soon as agreed on.

and no more signal evidence of ignorance of ecclesiastical history and of all experience could be given than to urge that the provincial system, as it existed in the early church, leads to Rome. It leads directly the other way. The interest which we feel in the matter is simply our desire to cure existing evils and avert impending dan-gers by employing the methods of government and administration which were adopted by the primitive church, and which all experience shows have proved the most effectual for securing the rights and freedom of all-clergy and peopleguarding against the intrusion of abuses, both rom above and below.

Among the statistics of Episcopal work done, we find 303 confirmed, as against 219 during the mitted, making the present number eleven. For the support of these young men, with a single exception, the Bishop is indebted to the society Bishop presiding. The Rev. Walter H. Moore, for promoting religion and learning in the State was elected Secretary, and the Rev. F. W. Taylor of New York, for grants which, in the aggregate amount to more than $1,300.

On the subject of the Orphanage the Bishop

It is our happiness to announce to you that we have an orphanage in our See city, under the shadow of our Cathedral Church. God has put it into the hearts of some to help us to commence this blessed work. A holy woman from the East has sojourned with us for a time, and put our house in order, and we are ready for our guests. We hope that her visit has been so fruitful in results that she will come again and make Springfield her workshop, her hive, where the good Lord will give her helpers to prepare honey, and the honeycomb, and distill sweetness all over the Diocese. With the kind permission of Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, a sister from Louisville has come to us and taken charge of the little lonely ones whom God lends to us for a time to return to Him with interest. To the extent of its capacity our orphanage will be open to all who need its shelter and protecting care.
About $3,000 remain to be paid upon our spacious home and lot, and fully $1,000 each year same person. will be required to carry on our work. Other institutions will follow in procession our orphanand we know they are right things, for they are our Lord's doings, or his Apostles', and we can we yearned for a procession which would be al ways moving on, and we hoped that our reality might copy the exquisitely lovely ideal of the or as they would, a little child would lead our ca-

Among the interesting items of business reported, we note that Rev. Mr. Wells raised the temperance question in the presentation of a resolution on the subject. The Bishop took occasion to say that the term "temperance" was things, and not as pertaining exclusively to one moved to lay the resolution on the table, which was carried.

On motion of Mr. John A. Jones, the delegates to the next General Conference were instructed to endeavor to obtain the adoption by this branch To enter the world of spiritual realities, man to the laws of his country, or else, in silence and of the Catholic Church, of a name more appropriate than that of Protestant Episcopal.

TRINITY SUNDAY.

LESSON: REVELATIONS IV:2-8. This book has always been received in the Church as the work of the Apostle St. Johncalled "the Theologian" or "the Divine." This fact was first confidently controverted, in modern times, by Luther, and until this date the critics of Germany have generally denied that John the son of Zebedee is the author of this book. It may be stated, that the veracity and divine authority of the Book makes it a necessity that the authorand the Apostle should be one and the

"In one sense it is true, that the faithful are always prophet in Scripture. But come when they might, in the spirit, they are spiritual (1 Cor. iii:1); they are led by the Spirit (Rom. viii:14); but here, and in chap. i:10, and xxi:10, the words are used in an eminent and peculiar sense; and they describe-not the habitual condition of the faithful. but-an exceptional condition, differing from the other, not in degree only, but in kind; a condition in which there is a suspension of all the motions and faculties of the natural life, in order that a higher life may be called into a preternatural activity, during and through that suspension."-Trench. The things of this spiritual condition, these visions of the Lord, these heavenly things are to be revealed to earthly beings; hence, in this revelation, we are not to take the Apostle's words in Ascenston Day was solemnized by an Early a literal and material sense, but to take them as which spiritual truth is conveyed. V. 4. "The elders" are supposed by some to denote the Christian Ministry, double the number of the Jewish tribes; by others, they are supposed to represent the Jewish and Christian Churches, twelve Patriarchs and twelve Apostles; they sit, not upon seats, but thrones. "And round about the Throne, four and twenty thrones, and upon these thrones four and twenty elderssitting, clothed etc.," having crowns of gold, etc. The English word "crown" covers the meaning of both the kingly or political crown-the diadem; and also the token of merit—the chaplet or stephanos. This latter is the one betokened in the text, the crown of victory; of valor; of worth; of joy and gladness. It was a wreath of laurel, ivy, or other plants, or an imitation in gold. 24-26; 2 Tim. ii,:5). The amaranthine crown of

The crown of joy, gladness, immortality—the crown of life is meant in our lesson; also in chap. ii 10; iii:11. V. 6. The "sea of glass" is analagous to the sea of brass under the Law; and may be thought of as the symbol of absolute purity (Heb. x:22). The word "beast" should properly be translated "living creatures." This rendering is preferable, because it is more accurate; because it prevents confusion of thought between these heavenly creatures and the terrestrial beasts of chap. xiii; because it identifies these living creatures with the living creatures of Ezek. i:20; x:15,17, 20. These are best understood as representing Christ the Word of God as set forth in the four Gospeis. We note further (ch. v:6) in the midst of the throne and in the midst of the four living creatures, stood a Lamb as it had been slain;" and, as our Lord has said that His Word shall judge us at the last Day, and as we have His Word principally in the Gospels, we may well suppose these to be in the midst of His throne, and as explaining the Old Testament, and as being themselves prophetic. What could more accurately describe the Gospels, than "the eyes that look before and behind? Their six wings may well express the Divine mode of their going through the world; that "they rest not." is only that they are the fountain of everlasting life, springing forth from Him Who "worketh hitherto;" the eyes within may well be understood of the deep spiritual heart-searching of the Word of God, which "divideth between the soul and spirit." And what else can be said so fully to give "Glory," to the Ever Blessed Trinity, as the Gospel; through and by which, the Trinity in Unity and the Unity in Trinity is manifested, as the object of Divine Worship. And as the Spirit, through the Gospels, voices the Tris-Agion to the Eternal Triune God, the Churches of God -the old and new Dispensations-the twenty and four elders -all the Churches of God, fall down and worship and cast their crowns before the Throne; their faith, their triumphs, their woes, their endurance (all the trophies of the victories of faith and love), are offered to the Lamb; because that Christian righteousness which the Gospel reveals, is founded in humiliation.
